How many lbs. of fudge are in a batch?

There are approximately 18 lbs. Per batch.

Will fudge melt?

Fudge will melt if heated to the point of 240 degrees, so it will only melt if you heat it up. Fudge will get soft in the summer heat. If it does get soft, simply put it in a cool place and it will firm up.

How should I store fudge?

Fudge can be kept fresh for up to 8 weeks at room temperature if wrapped correctly. It will also keep for several months if frozen.

If freezing fudge, we recommend wrapping it in the paper that we provide during shipping then place it in a freezer zip bag or if you have a vacuum sealer that would even be better. When you are ready to thaw it, place it at room temperature unwrapped until fully thawed. Then it is ready to eat.
